Developer to eye downtown

By Sam Hananel
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Representatives of a St. Louis company that may be interested in developing a downtown shopping center here will tour Granite City this week, according to Alan Ortals, economic development director.

Ortals and Aldermen Jim Miller and Jeff Worth secured the interest of the St. Louis firm and eight other developers during a trip last month to the International Council of Shopping Centers convention in Las Vegas.

Miller, chairman of the City Council's Downtown Rehabilitation Committee, said that gaining developers' interest at the convention was "a major hurdle" for the city.

"It's an accomplishment, considering there was absolutely no interest before the convention," Miller said.

Although the city had sent out 130 requests for proposals to developers in April, none had responded.

Miller said he followed up with phone calls to 30 developers but there was still no interest.

"We went out to Vegas with the idea of trying to drum up some interest, trying to get our foot in the door," Ortals said.

He had attended the convention last year on a fact-finding mission and suggested that it would be worthwhile for the city to send representatives.

Not many cities try to attract developers by sending representatives to the shopping centers meeting, Miller said. In fact, some cities that consider their regions overdeveloped send officials to discourage retailers from building further.

This left Granite City in a unique position among other cities at the convention, Ortals said. The positive results show that there is no substitute for personal contact between city representatives and developers, he said.

Miller said his committee was not in a position to solicit developers last year because the city had not yet secured options to buy properties in the downtown area. "Without control of enough property that we'd like to have developed, it is difficult for developers to come in," he said.

Ortals said the city has worked throughout the year to obtain option contracts on properties within the proposed development site. About 45 percent of those property owners have so far agreed to sell should the city proceed with redevelopment, he said.

The site encompasses a six-block area bordered by 18th and 20th streets and Madison and Edison avenues.

The city decided to pursue developers actively after failure in late 1989 to sign Wal-Mart as an anchor tenant for the shopping center, Ortals said.

"We decided we're not tied to Wal-Mart and we're not tied to Eisenberg (developers). We'll go out there and see who wants to do what."

Hartigan to appeal IP's rate hike

By Andy Siering
Staff writer

SPRINGFIELD — Illinois Attorney General Neil Hartigan announced Wednesday that he will appeal a $75 million rate hike for Illinois Power Co. the Illinois Commerce Commission approved the same day.

It would be the second time in 15 months that Hartigan has appealed an IP rate hike. An appeal of a $60.5 million hike from March 1989 is still pending.

"The ICC ruling is a blow to consumers and is not substantiated by the evidence that I have seen," Hartigan said. "I will appeal this and all Illinois Power rate hikes until the company demonstrates a true need. Up to this point I do not believe they have done so."

Hartigan is the Democratic candidate for governor.

The ICC, in approving the rate increase of 7.7 percent, rejected a hearing examiner's recommendation that IP be given a much smaller rate hike — $27.7 million, or 2.8 percent. IP had sought an increase of $215 million, or 23 percent.

The ICC has now approved hikes of almost 15 percent in the last 15 months. A spokesman for the Illinois Public Action Council praised Hartigan's action but said it was not unexpected.

"The commission is on a pretty long losing streak in this state, resulting from decisions not based on the facts," said spokesman Tim Earley.

He said the commission is too "politicized" and makes its decisions based on "a desire to help Illinois Power."

Earley said the latest increase is just another example of an on-going "map of the taxpayer" by IP and the ICC. The increase is the fourth in the past four years.

Earley and Hartigan both assailed the ICC's contention that the Clinton nuclear power plant is 61 percent used and useful. Hartigan maintains that the plant is no more "used and useful" now than it was in March 1989, when the figure was set at 27 percent.

Locally, Helen Hawkins, a spokesman for POWER (People Opposed to Wild Electric Rates), said: "IP is going to do their thing. They're only going to stop when the General Assembly makes them."

School mandated for divorcing parents

By John D. Milazzo
Staff writer

Couples seeking a divorce in Madison and Bond counties now will have to complete a new mandatory program if they have children under the age of 18.

The Children First program will be aimed at diminishing the damaging effects that warring parents often have on their children, a spokesman for the agency that will provide the program said.

Completion of the two-session program, each session an hour long, will be a condition for obtaining a divorce for couples who have filed after June 1.

The program was announced by Chief Circuit Judge Charles V. Romani and representatives of Hoyleton Youth and Family Services, a non-profit agency that will administer the program for the courts.

Based on the flow of divorce cases through the courts, family court judges expect 900 to 1,000 individuals to be going through the program during Summer folks Egrets a popular seasonal visitor

By Dick Mann

LONG LAKE — Observing the work of mother nature can bring many fascinating experiences, but few of those match watching the white egret.

The egrets return to the wetlands along Morrison Road every spring, usually in the month of April, to establish a nesting ground. When the egrets have begun to set up house, you can almost be assured that the last frost of the season has come to the area.

As a result, the egrets' arrival is an excellent indication the time has come to prepare flower beds and vegetable gardens.

Egrets are like carpenters and they are very particular in the methods of constructing their living quarters. They fly from tree to tree, away from the nesting area, to pick out the specific sizes of branches that are used to construct their nests in the tall oak trees.

The egrets then wade through the swampy area below the nests to gather muddy grasses to complete their construction project.

Now that it is June, the egrets nest-building work has paid off and they have begun to raise their chicks.

The male egret is pure white in color and has about a four foot wing span. The females have more of a grayish tint and are much smaller.

The egret is a fine fisherman and likes to settle under trees along the shoreline away from the nesting area and catch fish.

the first year, Romani said.

Nancy Gaines, a family counselor for Hoyleton, said the program sessions will consist of video tapes portraying the kinds of situations in which fighting parents place their children.

Gaines said the one-hour sessions will be directed by professional counselors who will advise parents to consider their own situations and the need to be mindful of children's emotional and psychological well-being as the family is separating.

Romani said that in addition to easing the crisis atmosphere for children, the program is also expected to ease the caseload for the family court.

Family courts typically have dockets bursting at the seams, she said.

"Family courts are jammed and post-judgment proceedings involving children account for more than 50 percent of the hearings held," Romani said.

The Children First program originated in St. Clair County in the 20th Judicial Circuit, according to (See DIVORCE, Page 10A)

County union to set strategy

Union leaders representing about 250 Madison County governmental employees will hold an executive committee meeting Wednesday, June 13, to discuss strategy and options.

One of those options is a strike, said Jim Goodall, president of Local 799 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees.

The county workers, mostly courthouse employees, have been without a contract since Dec. 1.

Goodall said union representatives met June 1 with county management negotiators.

There was little change in the management contract offer, he said.

Goodall said the members are dissatisfied with what the county has offered throughout the negotiations. A vote was taken May 7 to authorize a strike.

After the June 13 meeting, "the general membership will then meet on Tuesday, June 19, and we'll lay the situation out for them," Goodall said.

Under an agreement between the county and the union, a written 10-day notice would be required before a walkout could be staged.

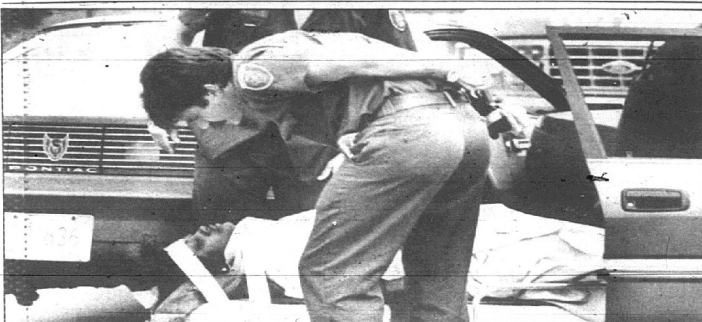

East Granite trees delayed

GRANITE CITY — The city will have to rebid its reforestation project for East Granite due to an error by Public Works Director Brette Hanke in the bid process.

The city wants to plant Bradford pear trees along Madison Avenue and Washington Avenue, crabapple trees along East 22nd Street, and pin oaks and crabapples in Webster Park.

Hanke said he neglected to provide correct fig-

No jail time for Henkhauses

By David Migoya
Staff writer

BELLEVILLE — Two sons of Madison County Treasurer Michael "Mike" Henkhaus were given probation Thursday as sentencing for the 1989 beating and near-fatal stabbing of a Bethalto man.

The 7½-hour sentencing hearing came after months of accusations that Henkhaus wanted to use his elected position to dampen the case and charges against his sons.

Michael S. Henkhaus II, 21, of Alton was sentenced to 2½ years of probation, of which the first year will be under intensive supervision.

St. Clair County Associate Judge James Radcliffe also ordered him to submit to regular urinalysis exams for drug use and to attend Alcoholics Anonymous meetings three times a week.

"If you deviate from the program, just bring your toothbrush because I will put you with other criminals for as long as I can," Radcliffe told Henkhaus after sentencing him.

During testimony, the defendant admitted to past problems associated with alcohol and drug use.

He had entered an Alford plea in March to charges of aggravated battery and obstructing justice stemming from a May 1989 fight at a Bethalto Hit-N-Run store that left Deron McKey, 22, with a knife wound ½-inch from his heart.

In an Alford plea, the defendant does not admit guilt but acknowledges that prosecutors have enough evidence for a conviction.

Henkhaus' brother, Matthew S. Henkhaus, 20, of South Roxana was sentenced Thursday to two concurrent two-year terms of court supervision for his role in the fight. In March, he had entered a plea of guilty to two counts of battery.

In Thursday's hearing, Matthew admitted hitting McKey, who was using a crutch to walk because of a cast on his leg. Matthew grabbed the crutch and beat another man, Todd Fee of Edwardsville, until the crutch broke.

Shortly after the incident, Mick Henkhaus was accused of engaging in a "political tango" with Madison County State's Attorney William Haine when he allegedly tried to have Haine removed as prosecutor of the case.

"If I had any political influence do you think my sons would plea to a felony?" Henkhaus said Thursday. "Bill had a job to do and he did it."

Haine asked Radcliffe to impose the maximum seven-year term, although he argued that previous misdemeanor convictions were cause for a 10-year prison term for the older Henkhaus.

"It was a stupid and senseless brawl and you were getting the worst of it," Haine told Michael Henkhaus. "That justified your plunging the knife into Deron McKey."

Later, Haine said his office would "keep a keen eye" on the terms of probation.

"I'll take the judge's word if we get (Michael Henkhaus II) back in here," Haine said. "I plan to monitor this man strictly."

McKey's parents, who said Treasurer Henkhaus' political position was the reason for "the light sentence," said they would try to organize against Henkhaus and force him from office.

"That's nonsense," Henkhaus said. "Just consider the source."

"I'm just glad this is all over," Matthew Henkhaus said after his sentencing.

The case against the Henkhaus brothers was heard in St. Clair County after judges in Madison County asked to be excused from hearing it.

Sturgeon facing upstream battle

By Jason Moody
Staff writer

WASHINGTON — The Pallid Sturgeon, a fish that has prowled the Mississippi River for millions of years, is now in an upstream battle for its life.

The primitive fish, which can weigh up to 85 pounds and live 40 years, is soon likely to be placed on the national endangered species list, primarily as a result of river construction projects that have destroyed its traditional spawning grounds.

"We have not been able to document reproduction for 10 or 15 years," said Kent Kreenlyne of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. "At this rate it is just a matter of time before they are all gone."

An endangered species listing would prohibit sport fishing and require the federal government to consider the effect on the fish before financing or granting permits for construction projects.

Currently it is illegal to commercially fish the Pallid Sturgeon but sport fishing is allowed in Illinois.

Under an endangered species classification the Bureau of Reclamation and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers would also have authority to undertake projects to help save the fish.

For example, the Corps could change the water-release system at the locks and dams in an effort to increase the temperature to a level more agreeable to the Pallid Sturgeon. "This is a big river fish that likes to move around and prefers faster moving and warmer water," said Kreenlyne. "When you dam the river the water slows down and the water gets colder and deeper."

More importantly, the dams change the flow of tributaries where the Pallid prefer to lay their eggs, such as the Illinois or Missouri rivers, making the waters more silty and slow.

"These fish have pretty specific spawning requirements," said Kreenlyne. "They need a hard gravelly surface that the eggs can stick to."

The change can be very detrimental to a species that spawns as little as twice during its lifetime, Kreenlyne said.

The actual number of remaining Pallid are hard to determine, but there were only about 20 sightings last year, nine from biologists trying to document them, according to Kreenlyne.

"We are going to have to get some breaks to keep this a viable species," he said. "We might even have to figure out a way to artificially propagate them."

County bidder not 'slighted' by loss

By John D. Milazzo
Staff writer

A representative of Korte Construction Co. of Highland and St. Louis said Monday that the company did not feel in "any way slighted" after it narrowly lost the contract to build a new Madison County administration building and to renovate the courthouse.

"We had some concerns about the process; we made those concerns known and we felt that the county addressed them," Paul Hales, Korte's vice president for business affairs, said.

"We don't feel there was any intent on their part to try to go around Korte Construction in this."

At a special meeting June 1, the county awarded a contract for $18,915,200 to Korte-Plocher Construction Co. of Highland, including the base bid and eight of 11 alternates. Korte-Plocher's bid undercut Korte's bid, the lowest, by only $14,000.

Ralph Korte, owner of Korte Construction Co., is the uncle of Dennis Korte, a part owner of Korte-Plocher Construction Co. The two companies are not affiliated.

Korte's base bid was the lowest, but it was edged out by Korte-Plocher when the optional alternates were added to the base bid.

Hales had questioned the method in which the county board's buildings committee recommended the Korte-Plocher bid, contending the process could leave the county open to criticism from taxpayers and would not yield the lowest cost.

But Hales said on Monday that "as far as we're concerned, it's history. We've got plenty of other jobs to bid and we don't feel that we were in any way slighted by the county."

But one county board member, Robert Stille, D-Edwardsville, said during the June 1 meeting that the board should accept Korte Construction's low base bid since, in his opinion, one of the alternates scrapped by the committee must be restored to the project to meet building codes.

"That alternate calls for a ventilation system in the courthouse atrium. Korte's bid for that alternate was $131,000 compared to $160,000 submitted by Korte-Plocher."

However, Jack Frandsen, D-Alhambra, said that by taking the lower overall Korte-Plocher bid package, the county will be about $85,000 under budget for the project.

"The county could likely use its own employees and some of its savings to install the ventilation system," he said.

Stille said that if county officials proceeded with work deleted from the bid package that cost Korte the contract, they would be exposing themselves to the threat of legal action. "If I was Korte, I'd sue," Stille said.

When the original bids were opened April 3, they came in significantly higher than the architect's estimates for the work.

Following the opening of the second round of bids, County Director of Administration James K. Monday said the new bids were advertised in such a way that 11 alternates could either be added or rejected to allow the county to stay within a $17 million budget for the building.

That figure includes a two-phase, $14.5 million general obligation bond issue and interest that will be received on that money — plus other money set aside by the county — less what has already been spent on the project, said county Auditor Fred Bathon.

The base bid in the specifications covers the new building itself, a plaza spanning Purcell Street in Edwardsville to connect it to the courthouse, and tunnels between the two buildings.

Monday said some of the savings reflected in the new bids were derived from changes in materials when the county's architectural firm rewrote the construction specifications following the April bid opening.

Monday said the new building will be constructed essentially as it was designed.

In addition to the atrium ventilation system, other alternates cut from plans were restrooms for the third floor and renovations to the basement of the courthouse, Monday said.

Chief Circuit Judge Charles V. Romani said he was satisfied that most of his priorities were being met under the plans.

Bear facts: Animal wrestling act called off

By Ed Gurney
Staff writer

COLLINSVILLE — Panama Jax canceled plans to have a wrestling bear at the nightclub this month after animal rights activists complained about possible exploitation of the animal.

"All of us at the club are strong believers in animal rights," said Jan Trober, who helped arrange the entertainment. "If they believe it's exploitation, we won't argue." The animal was billed as "Sampson the Wrestling Bear, 760 pounds of fun on his bear feet." Nightclub patrons were going to be invited to wrestle the bear.

Animal rights advocates began calling the club and Collinsville Humane Society officials. Society President Theresa Massa and shelter director Shelley Blumberg called Mayor Gene Bromblich, who asked Police Chief David Niebur to inquire about the animal act. Club managers decided to cancel Sampson, who is on a tour.

"We would have picketed," Blumberg said. The society was concerned that the bear was being exploited. "This is not a natural act," Blumberg said.

Trober said the animal's handler is reputable. "To me it's no different than an animal at the zoo or circus."

College, business speech fees bolster two senators' incomes

By Jason Moody
Staff writer

WASHINGTON — U.S. Sen. Alvin Dixon, who holds more than $1 million in assets, also received $159,153 on top of his Senate salary last year, according to new federal records.

The financial disclosure statements for U.S. senators, made public May 30, also revealed Sen. Paul Simon to be a relatively poor (in income and assets) lawmaker with a net worth of just over $200,000.

However, Simon supplemented his salary with speaking engagements, book royalties, and interest and dividend payments for a total 1989 income of $188,368, the records showed.

In 1989, S. senators were allowed to keep income earned from outside sources as long as the amount did not exceed 40 percent of their $89,500 salary. Illinois Democrats Simon and Dixon accepted $22,650 and $35,800 in honoraria payments, respectively.

While Simon relied heavily on educational institutions for his honoraria, Dixon collected most of his from business groups.

Dixon also received $74,617 in the form of interest, rent and dividend payments — outside income that is not regulated by current Senate rules.

With a net worth of $1,257,894,

Dixon listed everything from Cadillac and jewelry to stocks, bonds and real estate in his asset column.

He reported more than $400,000 in certificates of deposits alone. Dixon was also reimbursed by private business groups for four round-trip tickets to West Palm Beach, Fla.

Both senators continue to receive annual pension payments from the Illinois General Assembly, where they both served for a number of years.

Dixon, third-ranking Democratic senator, lives in Belleville: Simon, formerly of Madison County and a 1988 presidential aspirant, resides in Makanda.

Clean-up chores follow area storm

Many Mitchell residents spent last weekend cleaning up tree limbs and debris from their property following a severe wind storm that swept through the area Saturday afternoon.

In addition to damaging trees and utility lines in the area, a tree was blown over onto a house on Lenox Avenue and lightning caused damage to a television at the home of Janet Woods on Moorland Drive.

Lighting also tracked along a cable TV line into the home of Kelley Hodges on Meadowlane Drive, it was reported.

Over the past few weeks Melvin and Joann Cotter of English Place have been hosting their longtime friends, Byron and Peggy Schuchmann of Foley, Ala.

Melvin Cotter and Byron Schuchmann worked together at Granite City Steel prior to Schuchmann's retirement in 1980 when he moved to Alabama. The Schuchmanns also visited other friends and relatives in the area.

Jane Miller of East Chain of Rocks Road has returned from San Diego, Calif., where he visited his lifelong friend and former school chum, Donald Sawyer. Miller also visited his aunt and uncle, Jane and Milo Taylor, in Encinitas, Calif.

Maxine Duniphan

The monthly meeting of the Camera Explorers Club was held at the Hartford Public Library on Monday at 7 p.m. Members from Mitchell, Hartford and South Roxana attended.

Club members may display three photographs in each of three categories—color, black and white, and slides—at the meetings. The photographs are displayed, voted on and critiqued by the members.

Photographs receiving first place ratings at Monday's meeting were taken by: Bev Zagor, color and black and white; and Earl Nalor, best slide.

A membership drive is now being sponsored by the club. Meetings are held on the first Monday of each month at 7 p.m.

The July photo theme will be "Cats." For further information call the library at 254-9394 or Maxine Duniphan at 931-2714.

Members of Faith Chapel

Church remembered their former pastor, Rev. Avery Morris, on Sunday, May 27.

The Rev. Morris died at his home on May 28, 1989, while preparing for the Sunday services.

As a tribute to Rev. Morris, a framed picture of the minister was presented to the church. A poem written in his memory and given to his widow states:

Remembering
A year has now come and gone
Since the Lord called you home
Although you're gone,
You are not forgotten
Those left behind
Think of you often
You were a good pastor
Of Faith Chapel Church
And all of us here
Miss you so much
Where you now abide
We know you're walking
At Jesus' Side
You can now get the answers
So we wanted to know
That you never found
The searching here below
We know you are happy
And can now rest in peace
With God there in Heaven
Where time doesn't cease.

Maxine Duniphan covers the Mitchell area for the Press-Record-Journal. She can be contacted at 931-2714.

DUV 92 luncheon notes Memorial Day

Joyce Moran was hostess when the Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War, Aunt Becky Young Tent 92, met at Jerry's Cafeteria on May 24 for a luncheon and business meeting.

Theme for the luncheon was in keeping with Memorial Day. A red, white and blue floral centerpiece was used on the table and each member received a fabric and lace hat pin cushion as a favor.

The business segment was conducted by President Florence Hildebrand. Prayer was led by Joyce Moran and all repeated the pledge of allegiance.

Roll call and the secretary's report were given by Irma Taylor and the treasurer's report was read by Louise Thompson.

Plans were finalized for the annual picnic to be held on June 28 at Wilson Park shelter No. 2. New Department of Illinois officers announced include Peggy Gibbons, who was appointed assistant guard.

Local members appointed to state committees also included: Living Memorial, Louise Thompson, chairman, and Peggy Gibbons; membership, Irma Taylor; and national defense, Joyce Moran. Thompson is a past state president.

It was noted that Janice Pigg, a daughter of Stanley and Doris Edwards of Granite City and a niece of Peggy Gibbons, who was the recipient of a GAR Living Memorial Nurses Scholarship from the DUV Department of Illinois, graduated May 20 from Lutheran Medical Center School of Nursing.

The graduation ceremony was held at Holy Cross Lutheran Church and a reception followed at the nurses' residence.

Also attending the May meeting were: Eud Bolin, Bessie Seibold, Mary Stoum, Alma Beckmann and Peggy Gibbons.

Games were played under the direction of Moran and a special prize was awarded to Bolin.

'40 Venice graduates mark 50th anniversary

Venice high school class of 1940 graduates celebrated their 50th anniversary Sunday, May 20, with cocktails and reminiscing.

A champagne toast to past years opened the program. Harry J. Fechte, a member of the class, awarded parchment replica diplomas, and as each classmate was called upon, made comments of their lives, families, and what occurred during the 50 years.

Many commented on the dedication of the teachers and the foundation of knowledge received. Fechte also had prepared miniature diplomas to serve as place cards, with 50-year gold seals and ribbons attached.

Margaret "Sally" Burns compared the prophecy to the actual lives of the classmates, and there were a few that bore out correctly. Maxine Tawney presented a faithful comparison of the slang, intentions and conveniences and the changes from 1940.

Dinner at "The Den" followed the program.

KSDK winning news war, KTVI still a basket case

By Ian MacBryde
Staff writer

With the May Nielsen rating period now a matter of history, at least two of the local television stations have some good things to talk about — and a third keeps waiting for an answer to arrive from somewhere.

KSDK-TV (Channel 5) still is the market leader, leading at every newscast (and darn near everywhere else) and dragging NBC to a local prime-time win.

KMOV-TV (Channel 4) which has been working round-the-clock to close the gap, has the substantial consolation of having cut into Channel 5's lead for the 10 p.m. news audience, compared with the ratings for last May.

KTVI-TV (Channel 2) remains a ratings basket case. The ABC affiliate does terrible numbers for its newscasts, and drags its network to a solid third-place performance here in prime time.

Nationally, the networks were all within a rating point of each other in May, with NBC fractionally on top of CBS, and ABC trailing slightly.

In the St. Louis market, NBC led with a 17 average rating for 8 to 10 p.m. Monday through Friday. CBS scored 14, and ABC staggered in with an 11. (A rating point equals 1 percent of the total television sets in the market, approximately 11,000 homes).

Channel 2, which has just hired a new news director, even succeeded in pulling ABC's first-place "Evening News" down to a five rating — half what it does nationally.

The 10 p.m. newscast is important to the local stations both because it attracts the largest news audiences and, therefore, attracts advertisers. It is also important because it draws viewers who may then watch the station's late-night programming, which is crammed with spot advertising.

Channel 4 increased its rating for the late news by three ratings points over last year. That will go over well with the sales department.

Channel 4's director of operations, Jim Rothschild, says he's especially pleased with the newscast's performance, although he points out that all three major newscasts at the station (5, 6 and 10 p.m.) showed improvement.

"Love Connection" helps Rothschild also agreed with the suggestion that "Love Connection" at 10:30 p.m. probably helped the news ratings. "Connection" did a 14 rating at 10:30, compared with an 8 last May for Carol Burnett.

The idea that the program following a newscast can help the news is certainly not without precedent in the market.

Cahokia Mounds Site offers June activities

COLLINSVILLE—Cahokia Mounds State Historic Site will feature a variety of activities during June. Most activities will be free.

Already started are public tours. Guides conduct tours at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and noon and 2 p.m. Sunday. No reservations are required. Organized groups may take self-guided tape tours of the site, but must make reservations.

At dawn on June 17 there will be an observance of the summer solstice sunrise at the reconstructed Woodhenge. Site personnel will explain the discovery, form and function of the sun calendar there. Participants should arrive by 5:30 a.m.

An Indian Food Festival will be held on June 23 from 1 to 4 p.m. Members of the American Indian Center of St. Louis will demonstrate traditional food preparation and cooking, and samples will be available for testing. The Cahokia Mounds Volunteers will demonstrate prehistoric food preparation and there will be hands-on activities.

On June 30 a new temporary exhibit, "Urban Landscapes," will open in the Interpretive Center. This exhibit will feature paintings, drawings and prints by various artists depicting how they feel the prehistoric city of Cahokia Mounds appeared around 1100 A.D. The free exhibit will run through Aug. 27.

CHAIN REACTION in the 1800 block of State Street on Friday afternoon resulted in damage to five vehicles, four of them parked and unoccupied, and injuries to the one driver involved.

Five-vehicle mishap injures woman

A five-vehicle crash in the 1800 block of State Street at 1:28 p.m. Friday left an elderly woman injured, the driver of the only occupied car involved facing two traffic charges, and a building damaged. All of the vehicles sustained some degree of damage.

Jimmie L. Cooley, 48, of the Lee Wright Homes, Venice, was driving north on State when her Buick auto reportedly swerved to the right, hitting a parked Honda Prelude belonging to Stephanie A. Guetterman of Collinsville, police said.

The two cars continued traveling north with the 1986 Honda striking the rear of a parked 1979 Mercury Zephyr, owned by Keith D. Thomas of the 2900 block of Marshall Avenue.

All three cars then moved forward with the Mercury hitting the rear of a 1985 Chevy Blazer, owned by Ralph E. Long Jr. of Fontainebleau Drive, Pontoon Beach, the report said.

At this point, all four vehicles continued to move north, resulting in the Blazer glancing off a parked 1987 Aerostar Ford van, owned by Gus Falter of the 3900 block of Pontoon Road. The Blazer then jumped the curb and struck the building, police said.

A passenger in Cooley's auto, Irene Vernon, 86, of the 1200 block of Market Street, Venice, suffered an injury.

Cooley was charged with failing to reduce speed to avoid an accident and for operating an uninsured motor vehicle. None of the parked vehicles was occupied.

Falter also owns the damaged building at 1830-32 State St. An estimate of damage was not available on Saturday.

Calling all consumers: Be leery of 900 numbers

By Sylvia Porter

The new 900 telephone numbers that you can call to find out everything from your horoscope to the latest sports scores have proved to be popular and profitable.

But, as is true any time there is money to be made, the sharks have been circling — and callers to some 900 numbers have lost more money than they bargained for.

"Because they've become so commonplace, unscrupulous people have started to use them as well," says Sarah Cooper of the National Consumers League.

Numbers with 900 as an "area code" have been in use for about a decade. They first were known to most people through television network polls.

The 50-cent charge they carried at that time helped keep the tally honest, because it discouraged people strongly in favor of one side of an issue from dialing over and over to make support for their opinion look strong.

The 900 numbers since have come to be used for all kinds of entertainments and services, including the "party lines" that have surprised many parents whose teenagers talk on them for hours at a rate of $30 or more per hour.

You can get a credit card by dialing a 900 number or play trivia games with the promise of impressive prizes.

While these numbers may seem a little ridiculous and expensive, they generally are not crooked. But there are some that are scams.

"We find this particularly true in credit-repair offers and appeals on television aimed at children," Cooper says.

In some cases the telephone companies themselves, that do the billing for the 900 calls, have begun to take action against the worst offenders, reasoning that the last thing the phone companies want to do is serve as bill collectors for con artists.

The basic problems are a lack of disclosure of the cost, or companies that put you on hold for a long time when you make the call, without your understanding that you are paying for each minute that you're on hold," Cooper says.

Many consumers have confused 900 numbers with the toll-free ones carrying an 800 prefix. All 900 numbers have a charge beyond normal rates.

"What we have seen for the most part is that calls with the higher charges are more likely to be fraudulent," Cooper says.

"There are lots of legitimate 900 numbers, but you can usually tell which ones they are," Cooper says. "They don't hesitate to tell you up front what they cost, and they don't make offers that are too good to be true."

If you have fallen for a 900 scam, complain to your phone company. If enough complaints are received, the phone company may be able to lean on the unscrupulous vendor.

stop. Hawkins said the legislature should enact a law making the seven ICC commission positions elective.

Martin Cohen, associate director of the Citizens' Utility Board, a statewide consumer group, called the rate increase "a bad decision."

"It doesn't need and certainly does not deserve a rate increase to pay for the blunder of Clinton," he said.

The increase is effective immediately and will raise the average electric bill by $3.66 per month, to $52.98 from $49.32. ICC Chairman Terry Barnich said the decision was "neither easily arrived at nor preordained" and was fair to both customers and the utility.

"The commission struck a balance between the interests of the company, its shareholders and the ratepayers by granting less than one-third of the company's request," Barnich said.

Cohen said the CUB plans to file for an emergency stay and a petition for rehearing with the ICC, and will file an appeal in appellate court if that is unsuccessful.

In March 1989 the ICC approved a $61 million rate increase for the utility, considerably less than it sought. The increase was appealed to the Third Appellate Court in Ottawa and is still pending.

Scott Peterson, a spokesman for Illinois Power, said the utility was considered the ICC ruling "good and bad."

"The good part is $75 million is a substantial amount of money," he said. "But the bad part is it's not enough to set the company on a good financial course."

Peterson said the language the ICC used indicated it is willing to reconsider the amount of Clinton that is "used and useful" in the future is a hopeful sign.

"We are hoping that language gives a positive signal to the financial community," he said.

Illinois Power suspended dividends on its common stock last year, and the company's preferred stock was downgraded Tuesday after the company reported a loss of 30 cents per common share for the first quarter of 1990. The poor performance was attributed to "inadequate rate relief and moderate weather during the latter part of the heating season," a company spokesman said.

to Romani. The 3rd Circuit serves Madison and Bond counties.

He said family division judges in St. Clair County had become alarmed at a steep increase in post-divorce court appearances in custody divorce cases and the damaging effects on the children involved.

The St. Clair County program was put together in 1986 by a task force of judges, attorneys and professional staff members from the St. Clair County Mental Health Board, according to Conrad Steinhoff, Hoytlevon vice president.

"The key here will be to attempt to get these parents to focus on one thing — to cooperate for the well-being of their children."

"If we can do just this much, we can mitigate a lot of the damage to these children," Steinhoff said.

The program, provided to the 3rd Circuit on a contractual basis, will be held at the Eden

Adult Day Care Center on Center Grove Road in Edwardsville.

It will cost a maximum of $100 per couple.

The fees will be assessed based on ability to pay, with sessions scheduled so that husbands and wives do not attend at the same time, Gaines said.

Hoytlevon also plans to provide additional services to divorcing parents and their children, including support groups for parents and therapy groups for children, Gaines said.

ures for the prevailing wage rate on the original bid specification. Instead of using 1989 wage figures, Henke accidentally used 1989 figures.

By federal law, a bid is not valid unless the current wage rate is specified.

In his rush to approve a bid before the planting season ended, Henke also forgot to send the bid specification to the Madison County Community Development Office, he said. The office must approve projects which use federal funds.

"That error would normally be caught by Community Development but I never sent it to them," he said. "I goofed."

Now the city must readvertise for bids. But Henke said the planting could not have started anyway, because the planting season ended June 1.

Although Home Nursery was "decidedly disappointed," according to Henke, he said it will submit a new bid. He expects the process to be finished in time for planting in the fall.

Post 113 opens with 4-2 win

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

GRANITE CITY — Shaking off the rust, the Triplets opened the District 23 season with a 4-2 win over Collinsville Post 365 on Friday at Varsity Field.

Janie Needham, coming off his freshman year at the University of Missouri-Rolla, picked up the win although he walked six in 5½ innings, and Tom Seneczyn came in throwing smoke again to collect the save. He struck out four in 1½ innings. Rich Schardan supplied the offense with a three-run homer off lefthander Brad Furfaro in the fifth.

"I can't believe Butch (Seneczyn) can't get some college interested in him," said Post 113 manager Ralph Burnett. "I think I can help him out this summer. Short relief is the perfect role for him when he comes in throwing like that, we're going to be tough to beat in the late innings."

"We're not going to win many games with only four hits," said Collinsville manager Doug Fish. "We just couldn't get around on (Seneczyn)." Needham hadn't pitched competitively since midway through the college season, and it showed early. He struggled with his control, although Collinsville's run in the first inning was unearned. After a hit and a walk to start the game, Tom Noascono grounded to Schardan at shortstop, but second baseman Jim McKeehan missed the throw at second as a run scored.

Needham struck out the next four, but walked the next three. Fortunately, catcher Joe Wallace nailed two of the runners trying to steal second.

Wallace to cast his lot with OSU

Joe Wallace's fate was sealed sometime Tuesday morning. But shed no tears for him.

When Wallace hadn't heard from any major league club by about noon Tuesday, it was obvious he hadn't been drafted high enough to get the money he was seeking. When he finally got the word late Tuesday afternoon that the Cincinnati Reds had drafted him in the 23rd round, he had a choice to make.

But it was really no choice. Reds scout Tom McDevitt came to Wallace's house Thursday morning and offered him money commensurate to that of a 23rd round pick. As he could have expected, it was nowhere near what Wallace was hoping for as a higher draft pick.

So Granite City High School's Fabulous catcher turned down professional baseball and will cast his lot in the college ranks. And that's not too bad. Wallace will attend Oklahoma State in the fall, and by the time you read this the Cowboys might have won the College World Series in Omaha, Neb., on Saturday afternoon.

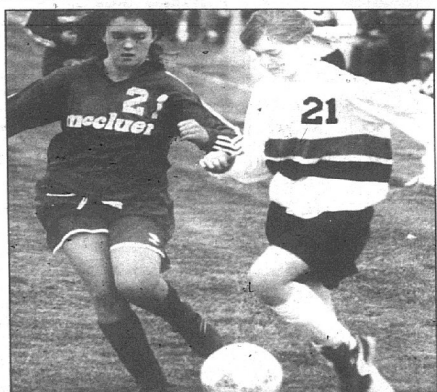

Wallace sounded a bit disappointed and discouraged immediately after hearing of his selection by the Reds. But he should bounce back. The other area players who were drafted higher (Brent Bredie, Brian Dabach, etc.) hadn't committed to college baseball programs comparable to Oklahoma State. And that was the deciding factor.

The Reds knew their chances of signing Wallace were slim, but the rules say you have to make an offer to each draft pick. Cincinnati retains the rights to Wallace until he officially begins classes at OSU in the fall. Once he begins there, he'll have to play three years before he's drafted again.

The worst thing that can happen is for Wallace to get hurt at OSU. The best thing is for him to go to Stillwater, work hard and help OSU coach Gary Ward and the Cowboys win another national title or two by becoming the next Mike Daniel. Daniel is the OSU junior catcher who carried one of the hottest bats in the College World Series. The OSU coaching staff expects Daniel to sign with the pros this year, so the catching job figures to be up for grabs next season.

Meanwhile, area fans will get to watch Wallace for a couple more months. He'll play American Legion ball for Post 113 and Mon-Clair League ball with the Miners when time permits. Wallace also has a few high school all-star games and he's an alter-ED DIXON (in car) and Charlie Barzoff are off and running again this racing season.

Barzoffs, Dixon seek Tri-City title again

By Joe Senter
Correspondent

GRANITE CITY — Charlie and Sandy Barzoff, along with their driver Ed Dixon will again shoot for the Allied Auto Racing Association modified championship at Tri-City Speedway this season.

The Barzoffs are owners of the B Auto Parts Co. in Granite City and owners of a two-car modified racing team. Dixon, of Washington, Mo., is a five-time AARA champion, and won his fourth in a row in 1989.

One of the cars is primarily used at the Belle-Clair Speedway in Belleville and the other is used on the larger track of the I-55 Raceway in Pevely, Mo. Both cars are powered by small block Chevrolet engines developing more than 700 horsepower. They were built by the All-Type Engine Builders of St. Louis.

Both cars have been completely redone during the winter months with many long hours of work. Barzoff and Dixon, along with a pit crew of Mike Coulter, Rick Woody, Jim Wilson, Jeff Bemis, Tim Snell, Jeff Sehl, David Barzoff and Danny Dixon, have done the work. Wilson and Bemis are from Granite City and Snell is from Madison. The body fabrication of both cars was created by Val Stark and Joe Senter of Granite City.

Barzoff is an ex-drag racer and has many years experience. The cars are stored at the Barzoffs' home in Granite City. The team rolled the car out of the trailer April 7 and won the feature event at the I-55 Raceway as well as the handicap event. They also took third in their heat race.

The Barzoffs are hoping to bring the 1990 season championship home. They now have Nulynski Race Cars late model stock car chassis sitting in the garage and will soon be putting it together to enter some of the late model races when time permits. Dixon will also drive that car.

The cars are sponsored by Jack Schmitt Chevrolet in Belleville.

Champ feels George's wrath along with Dent

Bucky Dent wasn't the only one to feel the wrath of George Steinbrenner this week in New York.

Along with Dent's firing as the Yankee manager, batting coach John (Champ) Summers was relieved of his duties by The Boss. Summers, a Madison High School graduate, is en route with his wife, Joyce, to his mother's home in Freeburg before heading to California.

After getting the flash over the radio about the latest purge of the Yankee coaching staff, I immediately called Champ's mother, Betty Summers, to get the latest. She said Champ would be in Freeburg by the weekend before heading west to pursue other opportunities.

Summers starred in basketball and baseball at SIUE and has been in pro ball for 18 years. He will be 44 on June 15.

It was George Bradley, formerly of Edwardsville and now manager of player development for the Yankees, who took a gamble and signed Summers to a one-year contract with the Oakland A's. The overaged rookie started out in Burlington, Iowa and had moved to the Athletics' AAA club within a year.

He was in spring training three straight years, but couldn't break into a lineup which had won three straight World Series. There followed stints with the Cubs, Reds and Tigers, where he was a great favorite of the Motown fans.

He finished his playing career with the San Diego Padres, hitting a grand slam off Cardinal pitcher Joaquín Andújar early in the 1984 season. He led the major leagues in pinch-hitting one year.

Somewhere along the line, Summers met Dent and he moved up to the Yankees when Dent was named the manager last year.

I hope that baseball will find a place for a man with his many talents. At any rate, he's logged enough time to qualify for a full pension. I hope when he comes back to visit his parents he'll find time to play me in a game of gin rummy.

Jamie," said Burnett.

Furaro rang up five strikeouts in the first four innings, but Chad Lignout got things going with a one-out hit past first base in the fifth. McKeehan got his second hit to bring up Schardon, and he blasted one over the fence in straightaway left field.

"I had a feeling we were going to get something going," said Burnett. "Richie was about our best and most consistent player last year, and I expect him to be that way this year, too."

"We got a pretty good pitching performance out of Brad," said Fish. "I'm not really sure what the pitch was that went for a home run. But we just lacked the extra intensity tonight. It's still early. We're going to have a good team, but we'll have to hit more than we did in this game."

Mike Clark had two of Collinsville's four hits, and he chased Needham with an RBI double in the sixth that made it 3-2. But Senczyn came in and struck out two to end the inning and added two more strikeouts in the seventh.

Meanwhile, the Triplets added an insurance run in the bottom of the sixth. Dan Partney belted a long double to left-center to chase Furaro. Kurt Hodges greeted reliever Matt Rimar with a ringing single up the middle, and Partney scored when Rimar made a wild pickoff throw to first.

"This is the deepest pitching staff we've ever had," said Burnett. "I look in the dugout and see four or five guys I've got complete confidence in. And our hitting will get better. Most of these guys haven't faced live pitching for a couple weeks."

NOTES: The Triplets play at Fairview Heights on Monday and at Waterloo on Tuesday (both 7:30). The Optimists' season opener at Staunton was rained out Thursday. They host Glasgow Village (Mo.) today at 2 p.m. (double-header) and St. Charles on Monday at 7:30 in non-league games.

Fast sausage supper makes every cook an Italian chef

Here's a simple-to-fix supper that blends Italian sausage and garden-fresh zucchini in a dish sure to please the most discriminating palate.

For those using a microwave oven, this dish is easily made in less than a half hour. And there's no skillet to clean up afterward.

Italian sausage supper

1 lb. Italian sausage
1 cup chopped onion
1 medium zucchini, sliced (1½ cups)
1 cup (6 oz.) tomato paste
1 cup water
1 tsp. dried basil leaves
1 tsp. salt
3 cups cooked rice
1 cup grated romano cheese
1 cup (4 oz.) shredded mozzarella cheese

Remove sausage from casing. Brown with onion in skillet, stirring to break up sausage. Drain off excess fat. Remove mixture to 2-quart casserole. Add zucchini to skillet. Cook, covered, 5 minutes. Combine tomato paste, water, basil and salt. Mix thoroughly. Add tomato mixture and rice to meat mixture. Mix thoroughly.

Arrange zucchini slices on top. Sprinkle with cheeses. Bake, covered, at 350° for 20 minutes.

Microwave directions: Remove sausage from casing and crumble. Combine sausage and onion in 2-quart microwave-safe casserole. Cook on high 5 minutes. Stir to break up sausage. Cook 5 minutes more. Drain off excess fat. Remove from oven.

Place zucchini in 9-inch pie plate. Cover loosely. Cook 8 to 10 minutes, stirring once.

Combine tomato paste, water, basil and salt. Mix thoroughly. Add tomato mixture and rice to meat mixture. Mix thoroughly.

Arrange zucchini slices on top. Sprinkle cheeses on top. Cook 7 to 10 minutes, rotating after 5 minutes.

All ice cream nuts can have Scoops of Fun

Scoops of Fun, the Midwest's largest ice cream celebration, will be held Saturday and Sunday, June 16 and 17, at Union Station.

Scoops of Fun is sponsored by the Midland United Dairy Industry Association. More than 13 local and Midwest ice cream suppliers will participate in the event, giving the proceeds to Cardinal Glennon Children's Hospital. Activities will be open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday.

KSHE-FM (94.7) radio will broadcast amid the scoops and introduce stage entertainment. The KMOV-TV (Channel 4) helicopter will be displayed.

Scoops of Fun is free to the public. Live bands, ice cream win-your-weight and dipping contests, jugglers, magicians, boat rides, a petting area with baby calves, carousel and a very tall cow will keep everyone busy. To get scooped into the ice cream tasting, adults can donate $3 and children ages 12 and under $1 to sample all-you-can-eat cones and novelties.

Looney Tunes characters will open the event both days, while the KSHE Classics Band will close it Saturday and Rupert's Orchestra will draw the curtain Sunday.

Last year, the event yielded more than $52,000 to help renovate surgical suites at the hospital. Amy Flister, director of special events at Cardinal Glennon, says the renovation tripled the use of the rooms. This year funds will be used to expand and renovate the emergency and trauma center, one of the busiest in the country.

Poke cake makes snack that won't strike out

America loves its boys of summer. Whether they play in the big league or a little league, they all are winners in the eyes of their fans.

Peanuts and popcorn are favorite treats at the game, while pre-game activities and star-of-the-play interviews are important times for snacking and mulling over the fly ball lost in the sunlight or the missed tag at home. Inspired by this season of the year, here are a few recipes that will keep the team and fans happy and cheering for more.

All-Star Jigglers can be stamped in the shapes of team initials or insignias, such as a bird for the St. Louis Cardinals. Bases-Loaded Gelatin Poke Cake is decorated like a baseball diamond complete with green coconut grass and toy figures. It was the inspiration of a dad who was decorating a cake with his son.

Out of the Park Popcorn is a snappy combination of popcorn and peanuts that can go to the game. Pitcher's Mounds will make fans go wild when they come up to the plate.

All-star jigglers

4 pkg. (4 servings each) or 2 pkg. (8 servings each) any flavor gelatin
2½ cups boiling apple or orange juice

Completely dissolve gelatin in boiling juice. Pour into 8- or 9-inch square pan. Chill about 4 hours until firm.

Cut in shapes with small cookie cutters. Cut remaining gelatin in cubes.

Makes about 5 to 6 dozen jigglers.

Bases-loaded gelatin poke cake

1 pkg. (2 layer) white cake mix
1 pkg. (4 serving) red gelatin
1 cup boiling water
½ cup cold water
1 pkg. (8 oz.) frozen whipped topping, thawed

Prepare cake batter as directed on package. Pour into well greased and floured 13-by-9 inch pan. Bake at 350° for 30 minutes or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. Cool cake in pan 15 minutes, then pierce with utility fork at ½-inch intervals.

Meanwhile, dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Mix in cold water. Carefully pour over cake. Chill 3 to 4 hours.

Frost with whipped topping. Decorate cake as baseball field using green-tinted coconut, assorted candies and cookies and toy baseball figures, if desired.

Makes 24 servings.
Note: To tint coconut, dilute a few drops food coloring with ½ teaspoon water. Toss with 1 cup coconut until evenly tinted.

Out of the park popcorn

8 cups popped popcorn
½ cup butter or margarine, melted
1 pkg. (4 serving) red gelatin
1 cup peanuts

Place popcorn in large bowl. Add melted butter. Toss to coat. Sprinkle with gelatin. Toss again until evenly coated. Mix in peanuts.

Makes 9 cups.

Cherry sauce sweetens everything

Sweet Cherry Sauce on Cream Torte is an ideal make-ahead dessert to serve at bridal showers, dinner parties or other special occasions. But it is not a one-occasion treat.

Serve the sauce as a topping for pudding, parfaits or ice cream. Replace frosting with it on plain white cake. Drizzle it across waffles, French toast or pancakes. Fill breakfast pastries with it.

The cherry season is short, but that makes the fruit and its individual taste all the more precious each year. The four Northwest states of Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Utah produce more fresh sweet cherries than anywhere else on earth. That is because the arid regions of these states have ideal conditions for growing this delicate fruit — an abundance of rich volcanic soil, warm and sun-filled days, cool nights and a bountiful supply of water flowing down from the melted snows of nearby mountains into irrigation systems.

The cherries are fully ripened on the tree. They are hand picked, cooled, gently packed in polyethylene-lined boxes to hold moisture and shipped within 24 hours of picking.

When picking them at the store, choose those that are plump, firm, smooth, blemish-free and brightly colored. Refrigerate unwashed cherries immediately. Wash them as they are to be used.

Sweet cherry sauce on cream torte

2 cups fresh sweet cherries, pitted, quartered
½ cup sugar
7 tbsp. water
½ cup light corn syrup
2 tbsp. cornstarch
1 tbsp. lemon juice
Cream Torte

In heavy saucepan, combine cherries, sugar, water, corn syrup and corn syrup. Blend cornstarch with remaining 3 tablespoons water. Add to cherry mixture. Cook and stir until mixture comes to boil. Continue to cook on reduced heat until mixture thickens.

Makes 2 cups.
Microwave directions: In large bowl, combine cherries, sugar, ½ cup water and corn syrup. Blend cornstarch with 2 (not 3) tablespoons water. Add to cherry mixture. Cook 3 to 5 minutes on high power until mixture comes to boil. Stir. Cook on high 1 minute longer. Stir in lemon juice. Cook on high 1 minute.

Cream Torte: Beat 4 egg whites and ½ teaspoon salt until stiff. Gradually add 1 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon at a time, beating after each addition.
In separate bowl, beat 4 egg yolks. Blend in 2 teaspoons lemon juice and ½ teaspoon grated lemon peel. Beat egg yolk mixture into beaten whites. Carefully fold in 1 cup flour.

Four batter into greased 9-inch cake pan. Bake at 400° for 20 to 25 minutes until wooden pick inserted near center comes out clean. Invert torte on cooling rack.

Combine 1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese, softened, with 2 tablespoons milk, 1 tablespoon confectioner's sugar and ½ teaspoon vanilla. Mix well. Fold in ½ cups prepared whipped topping.

Cut torte in 2 layers. Spread bottom layer with cream cheese mixture. Top with remaining layer. Refrigerate at least 1 hour. Serve with Sweet Cherry Sauce.

Makes 6 to 8 servings.
